NH Theatre Projects 'In the Garden of Z'

In the Garden of Z makes its world premiere at Portsmouth's New Hampshire Theatre Project on Jan. 19. This powerful new drama is the story of one Russian girl's reaction and response to the horrors of the War in Ukraine and how it motivates her to examine her family, her culture, history, war and the nature of propaganda- how it affects our lives and divides our communities.

The play is written by Russian-Latvian immigrant Jelizaveta Robinson and her husband, Sean, and is the product of almost two years of research.

Robinson went into a deep-dive of research into Russian state media and propaganda being used to gather support for the war. She began to learn the various propaganda tools and techniques that were used in Russia and, in the process, learned how these methods were being used in so many more places around the world, including right here at home. Her research led her down a path of education in Russian history she had never learned – about the Russian Revolution and about the culture that developed following the demise of the Soviet Union – an event that had impacted her own family and childhood, as well.

To help turn all of her research, information, stories, and thoughts into a fully-formed play, she enlisted the help of her husband, Sean, educating him in everything she had studied in the process.

As a final piece of their puzzle, the Robinsons were given permission by author-poet Polina Zherebtsova, survivor of the Chechnyan wars in the 90s, to use her famed diaries as inspiration for one of the characters in the show. The result was a new element that makes the show every bit the anti-war piece, as it is an anti-propaganda piece. The show is about the factors that led to the War in Ukraine, but it is also about war itself, about the mythologization of the past, about the dangers of misinformation, and about the painful experience of having family lost in lies and stuck in their ways. It is a thrilling and insightful look at some of the most important issues affecting our world today.

Art and Bloom event returns to capital

The Concord Garden Club is excited to announce its upcoming 21st Annual Art and Bloom exhibit. Art and Bloom is a Concord mid-winter tradition that attracts art and flower lovers to enjoy beautiful floral arrangements paired with works of art. This year, the club is partnering with the Kimball Jenkins Estate (kimballjenkins.com), which is where the event will be held. Club members and local floral professionals will create floral arrangements inspired by the current photographic exhibition, Postman and Rockstar, on display during Kimball Jenkins' January art show. The January 2024 event will kick off Concord Garden Club's yearlong celebration of the club's 100th anniversary and will coincide with Intown Concord's (intownconcord.org)

Winter Festival.

"This event gives us all a breath of fresh air and sunshine when we need it most," said Millie LaFontaine, chair of the Art and Bloom Committee and longtime gardener.

Art and Bloom will run Jan. 25 to 27. The exhibit is free and open to the public at the Kimball Jenkins Estate, located at 266 N. Main St., Concord, NH. For more information visit the Concord Garden Club at www.concordgardenclubnh.com or email Millie LaFontaine at lafontaine-family@comcast.net.

Art and Bloom exhibit hours are Thursday, Jan. 25, 2 to 5 p.m., and Friday, Jan. 26, and Saturday, Jan. 27, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The opening reception will be held on Thursday, Jan. 25, 5 to 7 p.m., and will have light snacks and drinks.

The event is free and open to the public. However, donations to support Art and Bloom as well as the Concord Garden Club's mission of sharing our love of gardening, increasing our

Dr. Lloyd Sederer visits Gibson's

Dr. Lloyd Sederer, a Concord author, visits Gibson's Bookstore to share the inspiring true story of how a small group of dedicated leaders achieved radical and relentless change to save McLean, Harvard's historic psychiatric hospital from for-profit changes. Caught in the Crosshairs of American Healthcare shows readers that, with grit, brains, and support, we can still change our world. Sederer recounts the unfettered story of how McLean survived impending closure or sale to once again prosper and regain its international stature as the hospital where you would want a loved one to be treated for a psychiatric or substance use disorder. Only growth and innovation can reverse an institutional fiscal crisis. Dr. Sederer describes how, over six years of hemorrhaging money, McLean eluded the now pervasive corporatization of American healthcare and was clinically and financially rebuilt despite the odds, all while serving with integrity and soul more patients than ever before. Mark your calendars for this Wednesday, Jan. 24, event, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at Gibson's Bookstore, 45 S. Main St., Concord. No registration is required.

Purple Finches Youth Chorus hosts open sing

Calling all prospective Purple Finches. Ever wonder what it'd be like to participate in a community-wide musical group and make new musical friends? Try it and see for yourself on Monday, Jan. 29.

The Purple Finches Youth Chorus (grades K-8), led by Maria Isaak, includes three age levels — the Fledglings, the Fliers, and the Finches. The three groups allow an age-appropriate sequence of musical development, as students learn music literacy through regular rhythm, solfège, and ear-training, based on a hybrid of Kodály and other methods. The choruses rehearse Monday afternoon/evening during the school year, and perform regularly.

This Open Sing is free

and open to the public. (There is a fee to participate in Purple Finches regularly after the Open Sing.)

The time schedule is as follows:

- 4:10 to 4:55 p.m.: Fledglings (grades K-2)
- 5 to 5:55 p.m.: Fliers (grades 3-5)
- 6 to 7:15 p.m.: Finches

Select (grades 6-8)

This event is part of Concord Community Music School's 40th Anniversary Year celebration and will be held in their historic

Recital Hall. For additional details about the Purple Finches, call 603-228-1196 or visit ccmusic-school.org/index.php/purple-finches

'The Chinese Shawl'

By Patricia Wentworth
(1943, 270 pages, genre: mystery)

Laura Fane comes of age in England and inherits a property called the Priory. Her older cousin Agnes lives there, and Agnes wants to buy it from Laura. Agnes is a formidable woman and was once engaged to Laura's father. Laura's father broke the engagement in order to marry Laura's mother. Agnes never married and has hung onto her heart-break and anger. Agnes want to buy the Priory from Laura and to leave it in her will to another relation, Tanis Lyle. Tanis is starting out as an actress. She is attractive, but can be vicious and manipulative.

Laura Fane is invited to The Priory as a houseguest and decides to go with a mixture of curiosity and apprehension. There she meets Agnes, Tanis, and a handsome young man named Carey Desborough. Laura and Carey immediately strike up a friendship. But Tanis says that she and Carey are engaged! Carey denies this. Laura doesn't know what is true. Then during the weekend, a murder takes place.

Miss Silver, a retired governess, is also staying at the house and offers to help the police with the murder. (Miss Silver could be kin to Agatha Christie's Miss Marple. In fact, the two characters appeared in print within two years of each other). Miss Silver is also an observer of human nature and makes suggestions that ultimately reveal the motive for the murder. It's a classic British mystery with a likeable heroine, a definite sense of place, and a great collection of suspects. See if you can discover the culprit.

history

Jan. 18, 2002: A frustrated House majority declared that landmark court rulings requiring the state to pay for schools were wrong, the Monitor reports. While the resolution has no legal effect, supporters see it as a first step to taking back control over school funding from the state Supreme Court.

Jan. 18, 1782: Daniel Webster is born. His parents are Abigail (Nabby) Webster and Captain Ebenezer Webster. The future U.S. senator and renowned nationalist and orator is a frail child.

Jan. 18, 1982: New Hampshire is rattled by the worst earthquake in 42 years. In Concord, a city council meeting has just gotten under way. As Mayor David Coeyman gavels the meeting to order, the windows begin shaking and papers begin shuffling. "I will always remember this," Coeyman says.

Jan. 19, 1942: Sylvia Esty, an 8-year-old Jehovah's Witness, puts her hand over her heart but refuses to say the words of the Pledge of Allegiance at the Garrison School in West Concord. She says God has forbidden her to pledge allegiance to flag and country. Concord's school board says it may have to expel her.

Jan. 20, 2002: A youth survey suggests there may be a growing number of New Hampshire teenagers who are suicidal, the Monitor reports. The 2001 Youth Risk Behavior Survey, taken by 1,303 teenagers across the state showed 16.6% of the students surveyed said they "actually attempted suicide one or more times during the past 12 months." In the last survey, in 1999, 7.7% of the students responding said "yes" to the same question.

Jan. 20, 1798: Concord's first accidental fire is recorded at 10 p.m. in David George's hat shop on North Main Street. "Let this, fellow citizens, excite everyone to vigilance," writes the Concord Mirror. "Query – would it not be a good plan for every man to keep a good ladder and one or two proper fire buckets always ready?"

Jan. 20, 1968: New Hampshire loses its 100th military man in the Vietnam War. He is Eliot Guild of Keene, a 21-year-old Marine medical corpsman.

Jan. 21, 2002: James Ewing, co-owner of The Keene Sentinel for nearly four decades, dies at the age of 85. During his tenure as publisher, the newspaper successfully campaigned for a wide range of causes including land-use planning, freedom of information and public services for the needy. After leaving day-to-day newspapering in the mid-1980s, he helped launch the International Center for Journalists, a Washington-based training institute for journalists around the world.

Jan. 21, 1990: The new Concord Monitor building is dedicated off Sewalls Falls Road. In April, the staff will move into the building. The paper and predecessors to which it can trace its roots have been published in downtown Concord since 1808.

Jan. 22, 1942: The Monitor reports that rather than wait for the draft, 32 men have enlisted at the Concord recruiting office for the duration of the war. Eleven are from Concord. Most have signed up for the air corps and been sent to Missouri to train.

Jan. 22, 1811: A cow belonging to Abner Farnum Jr. of Concord gives birth to a two-headed calf.

Jan. 22, 1997: On her way to a rally commemorating the Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion, newly elected Gov. Jeanne Shaheen wades through a dozen protesters who yell "Shame on you" and wave pictures of aborted fetuses. "It's very important, particularly these days when there's a new rash of clinic violence, for each of us to stand up and be counted and not be intimidated by people who would deny women the right to make our own decisions about our future," she says.

Jan. 23, 2002: Snowmobilers, fishermen, hunter, hikers and wildlife watchers who revel in North Country solitude can relax, the Monitor reports. It appears that the vast, privately owned forest covering the top of New Hampshire will be protected for public recreation and logging forever. In an unusual show of bipartisan support, lawmakers lined up yesterday in favor of a $10 million state bond to secure public access to the land for perpetuity.

"This place has honestly changed my life. The way that I can play with my nieces and nephew again and kayak and Rollerblade. The fact I can actually sleep without waking up to my whole body numb and not being able to move for 10 minutes. My back still has pain but not like it use to. I feel like a new person." - F.O.

"Crossroads Chiropractic has changed my life! I used to be in so much pain from my neck that I would get terrible headaches while working, my lower back felt so compressed and hurt all the time. They have really made a difference in my physical health overall." -P.D.
